As the voice of Purina’s science, the Purina Institute represents a diverse, global team of more than 500 scientists and pet care experts. We are here to advance the science of nutrition, promoting global collaboration with the veterinary community and scientific thought leaders.

Learn how Purina’s breakthrough studies, with novel discoveries about the molecular-level impacts of nutrients on pet health, have helped reimagine the ways nutrition can help pets live better, longer lives.

Advancing Brain Health

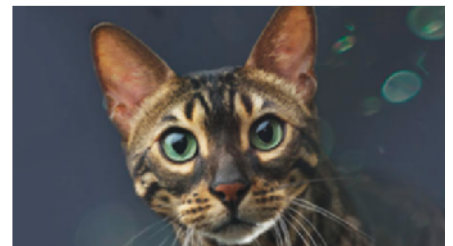

Learn how nutritional innovations can help protect brain health, manage age-related cognitive changes in dogs and cats, and improve outcomes associated with idiopathic epilepsy in dogs.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM

Transforming Heart Health

Learn about key nutrients that support heart health in cats and dogs, and discover how Purina’s scientists identified a specific nutrient blend that can help support heart function and slow heart disease progression in dogs with early stage myxomatous mitral valve disease.

Neutralizing Allergens

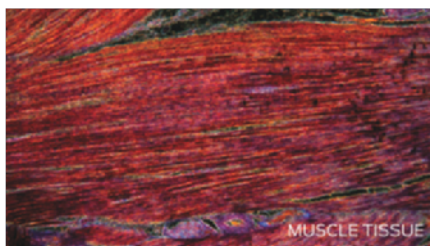

Learn about an innovative approach to neutralizing Fel d 1, the major cat allergen, at its source in cats’ saliva. As part of a comprehensive allergy management plan, this cat-safe approach can help reduce cat allergens while keeping the cat in its loving home.

ENTEROCOCCUS FAECIUM SF68®

Promoting Gastrointestinal Health

Learn about the critical roles of the gut microbiome in pet health and how nutritional interventions including prebiotics, probiotics and synbiotics can improve pet health, boost immunity, and aid in the management of common health conditions.

MUSCLE TISSUE

Extending a Healthy Life

Learn how Purina’s research demonstrated that nutrition plays a key role in extending the healthy life of dogs and cats. Read about the landmark studies that have showed how specific nutritional approaches can slow the onset of age-related health issues and add more years to the lives of dogs and cats.

DNA

Exploring Molecular Nutrition

Discover how Purina scientists use their ‘omics’ expertise—analyzing DNA, RNA, proteins, metabolites, or gut bacterial populations—to identify new ways that nutrients can help improve health conditions, such as osteoarthritis, and better understand how nutrition can benefit each and every pet.

HAVE ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS?

Call your Purina Veterinary Consultant.

Managing Backorders with Purina

When you order Purina products, here is how backorders are handled:

- » If a product is ordered by itself (no other Purina products on the order), the item will hold in the system and ship once product is available.
- » If the backordered product was ordered with other Purina products, the in-stock items will ship. Each item (SKU) on backorder must be placed on an order by itself. Once item is in stock, it will ship.

EXAMPLE: Clinic orders 1 case of OM, 1 bag of DRM, 1 box of FortiFlora and 1 bag of EN. If the OM and DRM are on backorder, the FortiFlora and EN will ship and the OM and DRM will need to be reordered. The OM should be put on an order all by itself. The DRM should be put on a separate order all by itself. That way, they will hold in the system and ship when they are back in stock.

HAVE QUESTIONS?

Call your Distributor or Purina Veterinary Consultant.

Tracking an Order

Please contact the distributor with whom the order was placed for tracking. Once the order has shipped, tracking information will be available.

If you are having trouble getting tracking information, please contact your Purina Veterinary Consultant.
